

Paranormal Corner: JUMPS director Doug Hogate Jr. leads group on Mullica Hill Ghost Walk

Jersey Unique Minds Paranormal Society Founder Doug Hogate Jr. first formed his ghost research team in 2008.

Since then, Hogate has investigated numerous historical buildings and private residences, seen many JUMPS members come and go, and received some notoriety as a leading paranormal investigator.

A few weeks ago, Hogate was contacted by NBC television network. The representative asked questions about the group, the equipment and the investigation techniques.

Long story short, Hogate and two other JUMPS team members — Co-director Melissa Dark and team leader “Bonnie” — traveled to Stamford, Conn., where they investigated the Stamford Media Center, formerly the Forum Theater that dates back to the 1920s and is where the taping of Jerry Springer takes place.

After reviewing the evidence, Hogate sat in as a paranormal expert for the Trisha Goddard Show on the CW network.
